Dear Miss Heaney:

I have just learned on reading over back correspondence that while I was away on my holiday you made a request for fifty copies of "The World We Want" and that Dr. Aydelotte, thinking our supply was low, sent you only twenty-five. Actually we have more copies on hand than he realized, and since you apparently are receiving a good many requests for the reprint while we are not receiving many, it seems well to share our supply with you. I am accordingly sending you fifty additional copies today under separate cover.

Yours sincerely,

Mr. Sweetser suggested that I write you with reference to copies of the reprint "The World We Want".

As you know, our supply of this reprint are exhausted and we have several requests for copies. Mr. Sweetser thought you might still have a supply of these on hand, which you would be willing to let us have to fill our requests. If this is true, will you kindly send them to us at your earliest convenience? We would like to have about 50 copies, if at all possible.

Dear Arthur:

We were very sorry not to see you in Princeton and I regret that by the time you do reach here, March 24th, I shall be leaving Chicago for California, to be gone until the end of the first week in April. I hope it will not be long after that before you are coming this way.

I hope that the pamphlet account is solvent. As I add up the amounts mentioned in your letter, plus the $12.00 we paid for the cut, the total comes to $207.00. Does this mean that the fund is still short about $25.00 or $30.00 or does the $50.00 from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation contribute in some way to the total?

Dear Frank:

How sad I feel that I was not able to stop off at Princeton this week, as I had planned, en route from Washington to New York! I wanted to have a good talk with you about the world at large, but now alas, I have to leave tomorrow for participation in the Empire State Town of the Air at Schenectady on Sunday and then to Montreal that night for a couple of days, when I hope to see the International Labor Office group, and finally further North still for a couple of weeks' vacation. I shall be back for a meeting in New York on March 24th and will hope to stop off at Princeton on my way down to another meeting in Bryn Mawr on the 29th.

Meanwhile, on one particular point I think we are getting the pamphlet matter straightened out, as you will see from the attached letter.

Enclosure

February 26, 1942

Dear Miss Voigt:

I take pleasure in enclosing herewith two further checks on the Princeton pamphlet account: one of $35.00 from the New Jersey Branch of the Association to be added to the $25.00 already sent, and one of $5.00, from the Connecticut Branch.

I should think that this would pretty well cover the costs. We have had, in fact, $75.00 from Pennsylvania, $60.00 from New Jersey, $5.00 each from Massachusetts and Connecticut, a slight balance on the Woodrow Wilson order, and a promised check from San Francisco, while the expenses were reduced by Dr. Aydelotte's agreeing to take the cost of the out. Plus, of course, the ~~balance~~ ^{balance} on #36.

I should be grateful, however, if you could send me an exact statement of how the account stands, as Dr. Aydelotte will certainly want to see it.

Dear Mr. Hydeletts:

I appreciate the generosity and interest which prompted you in sending your check for twenty-five dollars to the New Jersey League of Nations Association. At the same time I do not feel entirely happy about it.

The New Jersey Association has been in a semi-comatose, more or less dormant state for some time. I am trying a resuscitation process and am encouraged. As yet that encouragement has slight financial backing. Mrs. Crichton has been the sole spark of life for some time. Her interest has been mainly in the schools and the examination contest. She has kept the Association from disintegrating however. Her salary - very small for what she does - is paid only when there is money in the treasury. Frequently it has to be augmented by appeal to our most interested members.

Personally, unfortunately, I am already too far involved.

This all adds up as you see to a difficult problem.

The Princeton meeting was very helpful. It was a public demonstration that the Association was alive and had a function. We are trying to build on that before it fades too far into the background. The Pamphlet is good material. We are using it. Undoubtedly it too, will bear fruit.

I hope we may be able to ~~play~~ ^{play} a little more self respecting part in the good work - in the future.

The Board meets in Newark, Thursday evening. We shall be as optimistic as possible and able, I hope, to contribute our share.

Sincerely,

Emily Hickman

Dear Miss Hickman:

I think perhaps I ought to send you just this line to say, in case the letter may have miscarried, that I have not received the $25 contribution for the Princeton pamphlets which you wrote me some time ago you had requested the treasurer to forward.

I presume, though, that this is separate from the $25 which Dr. Aydelotte promised to contribute to the New Jersey Branch and that his check, also, will come through. In any event, I am sending just this line to make sure that everything is in order.

Dear Arthur:

Many thanks for your letter of February 7th. I am afraid the $25.00 which Miss Hickman sent you was simply the $25.00 which I had sent to her. She ought to raise another $30.00 or $40.00 and I hope you will put all the pressure you can on her to do so.

I am delighted to know that the reprints are on the way and am sure the artist will be pleased to see his name under his drawing, as I am to see the title of the Institute corrected.

I am delighted that you are coming this way around the 24th. I am supposed to be in a conference in New York on the 24th and 25th but am uncertain as to whether I shall attend. Now that we are on war time we should get a game of golf if the weather would only moderate.

Dear Frank:

Very many thanks for your letter of February 4 with its check for $75 from the Pennsylvania Branch of the League of Nations Association, which I am immediately forwarding to New York. This is splendid.

Thanks, also, for your letter of the 30th which I found on my return from the meeting of the Carolina Political Union at Chapel Hill. I think your letters to Miss Howard and Miss Hickman were fine; the former has already brought its result, and the latter probably contributed to a very nice letter from Miss Hickman saying that she was sending $25. I am glad that the Institute can take the small cost for the cut, and have written to New York today asking them to send it to you.

As for the reprints, they just came through this morning, and I am having a couple of hundred sent to you and will send more if and as you need them. You will see that we put in the name of the artist (to whom I am writing), the "d" in "Advanced", and at the end the Woodrow Wilson Foundation imprint.

We have already made quite a distribution of this reprint - five hundred more to the New Jersey Branch, three hundred to San Francisco, and one hundred each to the Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland and Los Angeles Branches, with the balance here. We still get good comments on the pamphlet and I think it is performing a really useful function.

Yes, indeed, "Parasites" is right. I have had a bit of that feeling ever since I got dispossessed from the magnificent office I was privileged for over two decades to occupy on the shore of Lake Geneva and under the majesty of Mont Blanc. It has been a real job, and sometimes wearing, to be trotting around from office to office, now in the Institute, now in the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, the Council on Foreign Relations, the League of Nations Association, and others. Friends have been extremely kind and generous all this time but I don't suppose I will feel really right until I get back on my own absolute basis. I do feel a bit floating here, all the more so as I seem to have to be away so much, but I suppose that is all part of the war. Meanwhile, I am going to continue to fasten on to all those who have been so very kind, generous, and hospitable, as you have been; you will probably see me again around the 24th, when I must go to New York for another meeting.

P.S. The Massachusetts Branch has sent $5; Connecticut is also making a contribution; I hope for some others.

Two hundred more are going to the Institute today for use mostly in New Jersey and bulks of one hundred or more have gone for distribution by the League of Nations Association Branches in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, Los Angeles and San Francisco, also Washington.

Dear Miss Hickman:

The National Association was very much in hopes that the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Branches of the League of Nations Association could raise $75.00 each to help pay for extra copies of the pamphlet describing the conference which was held here last November. I am happy to say that the Pennsylvania Branch has undertaken to raise its share. I hear from Mr. Sweetser that you were afraid you could not do so much in New Jersey. I earnestly hope that the New Jersey group can at least raise $60.00 and I am very glad to enclose my contribution of $25.00 toward that sum. I should think there would be no difficulty in finding two or three other people who would make it up without trespassing on the regular budget. I hear many expressions of interest in the pamphlet.

I am delighted that you are getting some new copies printed, with corrections made. I should be grateful if you would send me a small package of these. I want to send one to the artist if you have not already done so, and I should like to have some at hand to show to people who are likely to be critical on the score of proofreading.

Miss Eichelser says it was her impression that we were to receive one thousand copies. As a matter of fact, we received only about five hundred and these are practically exhausted, so if there are further copies available I should be glad to have them. Requests come in continually.

I am writing to Besse Howard about their contribution and I am arranging to have the Institute pay the $12.90 for the cut, which we may or may not be able to use in some way in the future. I am not sure whether it is tactful but I am also putting a little pressure on Miss Hickman, as you will see from the enclosed letter.

Dear Frank:

I have just arranged for a reprint of 2,000 copies of the Princeton pamphlet, with the two corrections on page one, namely, the name of the artist and "d" in "Advanced", and with the imprint of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation on the back.

These copies are going, as you will note, to meet requests for 600 copies to Mrs. Crichton for distribution to High School principals in New Jersey; 350 to meet a request from Mr. E. Guy Talbott of the Northern Branch of the League of Nations Association, a considerable number addressed to myself for the use of the Washington office, and for two large forthcoming conferences; and blocks of 100 copies each to the League of Nations Association offices in Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts and Southern California, all of whom I know are interested.

The Association is naturally anxious to clean up the financial side as quickly as possible and have asked if we could help get in the three promised contributions from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and yourself. One suggestion that was made was that it would help greatly both in securing the funds from Miss Howard and in sharing the distribution if you personally felt free to write to her and ask for an immediate settlement.

One other point which has arisen, namely, the cost of the cut of the Institute building, which came to ~~$22,12.90~~ ^{$12.90}. Do you think that that would be an inappropriate charge for the Institute to meet? The cut is an excellent one and the Association would obviously be very happy to turn it over to you.

This is just a line in great haste. I am back in New York for a meeting at the Council and then a short trip to North Carolina tonight.

Dear Frank,

I am very happy to say that at last I did reach Mr. Rosenberg on the telephone at Fairfield Monday night and explained fully the difficulty about the cut.

He was extraordinarily nice about it - Indeed I think he was greatly relieved when he found out this mysterious call from Washington was only on a small matter of this sort and not from the F.B.I!

In any event he said it was a matter of no importance whatsoever and that we need not worry about it. I think, however, that we can have a note put in "Changing World" next month and a change made in any future copies that may be ordered. It is for you to decide whether you wish, also, to have some little note put on the copies to be distributed by the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Branches, though I should judge from Mr. Rosenberg's attitude that it would not be necessary unless you strongly desired it.

There is also another aspect of the question which is worrying me quite a bit; namely, the financial side. The complete expenditure for the pamphlet comes to $230, with $50 contributed respectively by yourself, the Pennsylvania Branch, and the National Association. It would help very greatly if you thought the Institute could buy a certain number of copies on its own account and also, perhaps, cover the cost of the cut which came to $12. I am again writing to both Miss Howard and Mrs. Crichton, the latter of whom, by the way, wants 600 copies for distribution

P.S. I think you will be interested in the attached letter from Frank Walter

LETTER FROM ENGLAND DATED DECEMBER 13, 1941 RECEIVED JANUARY 13, 1942:

"I must send you this line of greeting as a full Ally. I think you and those who know as much as you do will be glad, in spite of all the suffering involved for your people, since it is now certain (1) that the war will be won (not that I ever doubted this); (2) that it will be much shorter than it would otherwise have been (this doesn't necessarily mean that it will actually be short); (3) that the great opportunity to establish world peace for an indefinite time to come will be given us once more if we know how to use it.

"In my last letter to you, I said I had no great hope that a truly constructive lead would come from this side, though if it could come from yours, it would be fully and loyally backed up here. This, I think, is still absolutely true. I believe we ought to set up in due course a kind of joint "Phillimore Committee" to work out a solid plan, including the USSR and other Allies. No doubt this is what Sumner Welles was thinking of in his famous speech of July 22nd. I suppose it ought to be in Washington, though I confess I hesitate as to certain consequences regarding British representation. And I cannot help thinking that this ought to be established soon, because it must be ready with its results when the war ends. I have always tried to oppose the idea of letting the new League or whatever it is to be grow up gradually after the war. There are specious arguments for this idea but I am rather sure it would lead to failure. Anyway, now that the U.S. will at the moment of victory be (I think these are fairly safe guesses) (a) determined, in its overwhelming majority, to take its share in insuring that these things do not happen again, (b) warned by the tactical errors of Woodrow Wilson not, this time, to destroy by such mistakes what was the greatest and wisest conception of American as well as world policy that has ever been planned - it will surely be in all our interests to act quickly. We must set up the world framework first (how right Wilson was) and likely enough leave many details of the peace settlement until later. Otherwise, all the inevitable individual discontents will block the main construction and very soon the elements on your side and on ours which do not want a real League will have all these as fresh arguments and will be consciously or unconsciously working in with the reactionaries in all the various countries whose collaboration is necessary.

"Only a second great League from America will sweep all that rubbish into the discard and, when it begins to emerge again, it will, I think, have lost its dangerous character if there is a real League, even though I take it for granted that the U.S. will not be ready to take any commitment of the Article 10 kind.

"Another reason for not waiting too long, which one cannot express publicly, is the possibility of a speedy victory. I do not think this is ruled out. I have always believed that the German people will begin to lose all hope of victory when they are actually at war with the U.S., and if this is correct it may begin to show itself before very long, taken in combination with lack of good news from Russia and Libya.

"I have had some talks with Burekhardt who is over here for Red Cross business. He says the Office does not look very different and that Lester and others say they are very busy. Certainly there are a lot of things they could be working on which they can still do better than anybody else- in particular to make preparatory studies about Europe's need of food stuffs, medical relief etc., after the War - and of how to rearrange and restore as far as need be some of the huge population movements which the Nazis have ruthlessly carried out (we shall need a far bigger organization than Dr. Nansen's).

"At the same time I think it would be a very good thing if we could have one or two people here who would be capable of keeping in close touch with the British Departments who are studying these matters and with the Allied groups also. I do not know very well who could come and wish very much that you and Loveday would let me know what you think about this. Also, whether the U.S. being in the war is making a difference to the Secretariat's status or enabling it to link up with plans for executive action as well as with preparatory studies? Would there be any remote possibility of either or both of you coming over on a visit at least?

Memorandum for Dr. Aydelotte:

Mr. Riefler was rather disturbed about Mr. Rosenberg's name being left off the reproduction and insisted that we must not send out any of the pamphlets until Mr. Sweetser or some responsible person had cleared the matter with Mr. Rosenberg. He impressed upon me that I must stick to this point in talking with Mr. Sweetser and that I must not under any circumstances take the responsibility for straightening the matter out with Mr. Rosenberg. Mr. Sweetser did try to get me to do it and I insisted that someone with responsibility for the publication should communicate with Mr. Rosenberg; hence his reference to my "distressed telephone call."

Both Mr. Riefler and Mr. Sweetser felt it would be a mistake to stamp or print or write Mr. Rosenberg's name beside the picture.

Dear Frank:

I am deeply embarrassed at the omission of Mr. Rosenberg's name under the cut of the Institute, and also by the omission of the "d" in "Advanced." Shortly after the receipt of your letter came a very distressed telephone call from Miss Eichelser following her talk with Riefler. I thereupon telephoned to Terry in New York, who was extremely regretful and apologetic, and again to Miss Eichelser. In agreement with her I telephoned Mr. Rosenberg in Fairfield and again in New York, and then, as it seemed unlikely I could reach him, I wrote him the attached letter which I hope you will feel is as good as the circumstances allow. Meantime, I asked Miss Eichelser to get in touch with Miss Howard and Mrs. Crichton and arranged with Terry for a correction in next month's issue of "Changing World".

There is hardly anything that one can say when a mistake like this has been made except to express one's very deepest regret. Things of that sort do happen when matters pass through various hands, as they did in this case between Princeton, New York, and Washington, and when they have to be rushed through for a date line. I feel all the more sorry about it personally, as I had gone up to New York in considerable part to see that the Supplement was gotten out in good shape, including both cut and text. I only hope that Mr. Rosenberg will not feel too badly about it and will accept the arrangements we are still able to make. Apart from this the Supplement seems to have gone awfully well; I have heard the best of comments regarding it from all sides and hope it may be of some value to the Institute.

I came down here last night for just a couple of days on special work in Washington which, alas, has been rather cut into by this present difficulty; I expect to go back to New York on Thursday. I rather thought that I would stop in at Princeton over the weekend as I would like not only to see Loveday after his operation but I would also like to see you after your vacation and at the same time to have a talk on general policy with Hambro.

I will telephone you by the end of the week, when I hope we may have news that the present difficulty has been cleared up.

Cordially yours,

Dear Mr. Rosenberg:

We were deeply distressed to note that the first copies of the pamphlet regarding the Princeton meeting containing your drawing of the Institute for Advanced Study did not carry your name underneath the title, as we had intended and requested.

This morning I received a very distressed letter from Dr. Aydelotte, who is still in Florida. Shortly after came a long distance telephone call from Princeton on the same subject.

As agreed with them, I telephoned to the Editor in New York and learned that in some way or other the instructions regarding the name had become lost on the way from the Institute through the Editor to the printer. The Editor was very embarrassed, as we are, at this mistake and expressed his very deepest regret.

I thereupon tried to reach you by telephone in Fairfield but unfortunately you had gone to New York, and when I tried to reach you there you had not yet got in. Pending our getting in touch with you, however, I have arranged first with the Editor of "Changing World" that, provided you agree, he will insert a note in next month's issue giving your name as the artist for the drawing and, second, with Miss Eichelser at Princeton that the copies provided for distribution by the New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Princeton offices are being held to see whether you would like some kind of notice attached to them. Also, we will be able to correct any further copies that may be ordered printed in the future.

We all most deeply regret this mistake and would not have had it happen for a good deal. We were very appreciative of your kindness in letting us use the drawing and made a very special effort to have it reproduced in good style. That the name of the artist should have been omitted in these first copies is the cause of both regret and embarrassment to us.

I do not, of course, know how you may feel on this subject yourself or how far you would like us to go in whatever steps we can take to correct it. I should be very grateful, however, if you could let me know as soon as possible what you think might be done as regards both the special copies which we are now holding up and the correction which the Editor of "Changing World" has promised for next month's issue.

Again with deep regret and with the hope of hearing from you as soon as possible, I am,

Yours very truly,

Dear Terry:

I feel awfully badly, as I know you do, regarding the omission of the artist's name for the Princeton cut and tried to reach him both in Connecticut and in New York to see what we could do about it. As I could not locate him I have written him a letter, copy of which is attached, which is as warm as I could make it in view of the very special effort which Aydelotte made just as he was leaving for Florida to get this cut for us.

I hope we can work the matter out in one way or another and will let you know when I hear from Mr. Rosenberg.

Dear Doctor Aydelotte:

Mr. Sweetser telephoned me this morning from Washington calling my attention to omission of the artist's name from the caption under the cut of "Fuld Hall" in the Princeton supplement to January CHANGING WORLD. I am extremely sorry about this.

Miss Eichelser asked me to use Mr. Rosenberg's name in a letter when the picture was sent. I was then holding the form on the press waiting for the picture, and, in the rush to get the cut made and the supplement to press in time for the Washington meeting, I slipped up.

The best I can do now is offer my profound apologies, put a note in the next issue of the magazine giving Mr. Rosenberg credit, and insert the credit in the caption of any additional copies of the supplement which may be run off.

Dear Miss Eichelser:

I have just received a copy of the League of Nations pamphlet from Arthur Sweetser and look forward to getting those that you have sent tomorrow. I assume that we have a substantial supply at the Institute. I wish you would send copies immediately to the Board of Trustees, faculty, and members of the Institute. Would it be too much trouble to write or stamp on these copies at one side of the cut the words "From a drawing by _____", giving the artist's name which I can't quite remember. I think that only fair to the artist and it may help to sell some of the etchings.

If you have enough copies I should like very much to have them sent to the members of the Swarthmore Board and faculty also. This would require about 130. It would only be necessary to send them over to President Nason, say that I would like to have them sent to the Swarthmore Board and faculty and ask him if he would be willing to see that they were distributed through the college mail. In addition I wish you would send copies of this pamphlet and the one which was published as a record of the League of Nations conference last spring to the following:

Dear ~~Frank:~~
~~Doctor Aydelotte:~~

I hope you will be as pleased as all of us are with the printing of the pamphlet on the Princeton meeting. I think it is a really most attractive bit of work and that it should be very useful.

It arrived just in time to be distributed to the dinner here and was most favorably commented upon. I have asked Mr. Terry to send several hundred both to Miss Howard for the Pennsylvania Branch and Doctor Hickman and Mrs. Crichton of the New Jersey Branch, all three of whom were here for the dinner. Also, I have written especially to the two big branches in California, suggesting the possibility of a bulk order.

I hope you like the way the cut came out. We had quite a number of questions at the last minute; indeed, it was partly because of them that I took a special trip to New York. We finally made arrangements with the engraver for a special type of cut, which I think has reproduced fairly attractively.

Also, with the cut, we had to reduce the length somewhat. The only way in which we could do it was by omitting the discussion, which I very much hated to do but which under the circumstances was inevitable. Also, after much discussion, we came to a compromise on the title, thinking that on the whole the original title was better than the others suggested but that your sub-titles were far better than the originals.

Our 22nd League Anniversary Dinner was a grand success: nearly two hundred people present; messages from the two surviving members of Wilson's War Cabinet; cables from the three oldest League statesmen, Benes, Koo, and Cecil; speeches by two present and one former Senator, Pepper, Thomas, and Pope; three-quarters of an hour on the Washington radio and fifteen minutes on a Columbia coast-to-coast hookup; and finally, three-quarters of a column approximately in the only three papers I have seen, the Washington Post, the Washington Star, and the New York Times. Just as I am dictating this, we have had a rather sharp telephone protest from Senator Guffey, demanding to know why he had not been invited -- which is a new experience from a Senator towards a League of Nations meeting!

I hope you have had a grand vacation and that you will return full of energy. I shall be in New York at the end of this week and also at the end of next week, and will get in touch to see if you are back.

Cordially yours,

Dear Arthur:

I hear from Miss Howard that she will undertake to find $50 toward the publication of the pamphlet. I will give $25. more, which will make the Pennsylvania $75. You have $50 from the national organization which makes $125, but Miss Hickman writes that she cannot raise any funds for New Jersey. I am glad to hear from Miss Richeliser that you think you can get something from Washington. I very much hope that you can and I hope meanwhile you will go ahead with the publication. I shall be glad to help scratch around for the remaining $75 when I return ten days from now.

We are having a good holiday here, and I am making excellent progress on the completion of a book which I am anxious to get out of the way. Golf is only fair, but I am glad to say that I have been under 80 once. I need your help. however, to do 74!

Dear Miss Eichelser:

Darned if I know..I'd thought we would get something from New Jersey and nothing from Pennsylvannia, but it seems to be the other way around. However, I'm hoping to get something from Washington so that I think we can go ahead. It's a bit heavy going, isn't it, for a tiny sum of money on something everyone seemed so keen about?

Wishing you the best of New Years,

January 12, 1942

Dear Mr. Sweetser:

I too had felt that it would be easy for the New Jersey Branch to raise the requested sum, while it might prove rather difficult for Pennsylvania to help the cause.

I mentioned the predicament to Dr. Aydelotte in one of my letters and he says in a letter received this morning that he thinks you should go ahead and that the small sum needed could certainly be found somewhere. I know, of course, that you have done so, and I judge from a conversation I had with Mr. Terry last week that the pamphlets are out by this time. I ~~ix~~ had a telephone call from him about the drawing, which I had not yet sent to him because some of the people here thought we should not let this original drawing out of our hands. We were going to have a photograph made, but Mr. Terry indicated that he must have a line cut by the next day if the picture were to appear on the cover. I therefore sent the drawing to him by special delivery, and I am happy to say that it has been returned in good condition.

I am most eager to see the results. I trust you are pleased. We have today a final pro of Mr. Rosenberg's drypoint and it is very nice - far superior to the drawing which Mr. Rosenberg had sent us.

Best wishes to you and Mrs. Sweetser for the New Year.

My dear Mrs. Aydelotte:

Your letter reached me yesterday. Mr. Hukula, I am sure, has gone to Buffalo for his holidays. The decision about a possible contribution from New Jersey for the reports of the meeting must come from her. I will mail your letter to her. She will appreciate your making up the Princeton deficit as I do. The meeting came just at the right moment. I am so glad we had it.

December 20, 1941

Dear Mrs. Crichton:

I enclose a financial statement of the Princeton meeting. You will note that there was a slight deficit, which has been paid out of Institute funds. It was a great pleasure to us to have the group here and I have had a large number of very thoughtful reactions from it.

Arthur Sweetser has written an admirable article about the meeting. It is almost better than the meeting itself in that it leaves out irrelevant material and puts emphasis on the important points. I find that we can get this published by the League of Nations magazine, The Changing World, as a kind of supplement to one of their issues, but they would have to have a subsidy covering the cost of printing, which for the article and two thousand reprints would be $200.00. Could the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Branches raise $100.00 apiece to bear the cost of this publication? If they could it would result in extending the influence of the meeting very widely through the country. I know the New Jersey Association could not contribute $100.00 out of its budget, but it occurred to me that four people might be found to make special gifts of $25.00 each for this purpose. I should be glad to be one of the four.

The magazine The Changing World would reach practically everybody who was invited to the conference, but I thought we ought to have a substantial stock of reprints to distribute also, and it was my idea that the two thousand reprints might be distributed equally between the two state associations and my office here at the Institute, so that we could supply them to anyone who inquires.

Please let me know whether you think it would be possible for the New Jersey Branch to raise the money to bear its part of the expense. It is not a purpose to which funds of the Institute for Advanced Study could properly be devoted. Indeed, I had to stretch a point to make up the deficit of the meeting, but I charged that to hospitality. I hope the two state associations can finance this publication.

Yours sincerely,

Many thanks for the note from Masaryk. I have been hoping to get away for the Christmas holidays and really expected to leave today, but have not been able to. I do expect, however, to get away early next week and am afraid Masaryk may come while we are gone. Really, early February would suit us still better.

Memorandum for Mr. Sweetser:

This article is an admirable summary of the meeting. Indeed, it seems to me almost better than the meeting itself, because it leaves out so much irrelevant material.

The thing must be printed. Ruth tells me that the League of Nations Magazine would like to print it, but needs a subsidy. How much would they require? Could we sell offprints to the League of Nations Association Branches in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and to the National Board at so much per hundred or per thousand and thus get the money required? If so, how much per hundred or per thousand would we have to charge? Could you get someone in the National Board to undertake these negotiations with the Pennsylvania and New Jersey groups? If not, I will do it, but I am overwhelmed at this moment with complications incidental to looking after twenty so-called enemy aliens, unfreezing their bank accounts, and securing clean bills of health for them with the F.B.I.

I have only a few comments on your article, as follows:

1. I think you could get a better title. Would the following be any improvement?

BUILDING A NEW WORLD ORDER

Proceedings of a conference of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey branches of the League of Nations Association on the future of the League, held at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, New Jersey, November 29, 1941.

I am not especially in love with this title, but something of that character seems to me what is needed.

2. I will get the photograph of the Institute for you. My suggestion would be that you put it on the front page and scatter the others through the text. Otherwise I am afraid the front page will look messy with three pictures on one sheet. It may be that I am wrong about this, but that is the way it strikes me at the first glimpse.

3. You speak in one place in the article of the British Empire as a union: "At present moment there is a union of the seven British democracies, with the United States linked to each one separately, etc." I do not think "union" is the word you want there. The British Commonwealth is not a union in Streit's sense, and all attempts at federation have been resisted so far. Politically, of course, the British Commonwealth is like nothing on earth. The Statute of Westminster which binds them together is largely an assertion of their complete independence of one another.

4. I have marked a few small typographical errors, but all these comments are unimportant in comparison with my feeling of the extraordinary success which you made in your effort to portray the central theme of the conference. I think the article will excite a great deal of thought if it is widely distributed. Ruth

Ruth says you are coming back the last of this week. I hope you will look me up. We were due to go to Florida on Thursday, but it is perfectly certain we shall not be able to get away. We may even be here until Christmas Day.

I have marked a few small typographical errors, but all these comments are unimportant in comparison with my feeling of the extraordinary success which you made in your effort to portray the central theme of the conference. I think the article will excite a great deal of thought if it is widely distributed.

Ruth says you are coming back the last of this week. I hope you will look me up. We were due to go to Florida on Thursday, but it is perfectly certain we shall not be able to get away. We may even be here until Christmas Day.

Dr. Frank Aydelotte,
Institute for Advanced Study,

Dear Frank,

I have just received the following from Masaryk. I am not replying at the moment as I expect I shall have to go to Washington this week or early next week and must make my plans first. I thought, however, it would interest you.

"My dear Mr. Loveday:

I was very sorry not to get to Princeton before this but I have to go out West again on Monday for three days and then Princeton will be one of my first goals.

Looking forward to seeing you,

Sincerely yours,

JAN MASARYK"

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:-

I am enclosing the check of the League of Nations Assn., New Jersey Branch for $273⁵⁰ which represents registration fees collected by said Branch for the meeting at Princeton on Nov. 29, 1941.

No receipt is required by us.

Dear Frank:

I take pleasure in enclosing the Mss of the Princeton meeting all done.

I hope you will like it; it surely has been quite a job and I have lost any critical judgment on it.

Could you go through it carefully as soon as possible and let me know what you think? I am hoping to come down to Princeton Monday late.

Meanwhile, in order to gain time, I am send sections out by mail to Hambro, Loveday, and Goodrich and hope to see personally tomorrow, at the Commission for the Organization of Peace, Boudreau, Gerig, and Eagleton.

The only bit that is missing is Herbert May; I hope to get his text back on Monday.

We should, then, be able to go to press in the week if you still so desire. Mrs Crichton would like a number of copies; I shall take up whether the Association also would.. or whether it would like to use it as a supplement to Changing World. I hope the Ozone Club was grand: I could not have got this done if I'd gone! Yours
A.S.

C.S. I would be grateful if you would look at the names and fill in where you can. I will be sure to put in your photo of the institute also. I am counting on your photo of the institute also.

Dear Mr. Urrutia:

I am delighted to have your letter of December 10th, which I am immediately passing on to two or three members of the League of Nations group. Mr. Loveday, the head of the Economics Section, is working here at the Institute. Mr. Hambro, the President of the Assembly, is living in Princeton at 65 Stockton Street, and Mr. Arthur Sweetser, of the Secretariat, is at this moment staying at the Murray Hill Hotel in New York. I am sending these men copies of your letter and I am sure they will be interested to get in touch with you.

I take pleasure in sending you under separate cover the latest bulletin of the Institute for Advanced Study, which describes the work and character of the institution in general and gives, on Page xviii, the names of the officials of the Economics Section of the League of Nations who are at present working at the Institute.

I hope to have the pleasure of welcoming you here myself before you return to Columbia and I would suggest that you plan to come down for tea some day in the latter part of January after you have recovered from your second operation. I shall be away for the Christmas holidays, but shall be in my office by the time you have been released from the hospital.

Dear Frank:

It was a pleasant surprise to have your letter enclosing a check for $5 for expenses, and also a word of congratulation upon the speech which I made there.

I had not expected a check, and did not think my speech was very good. So much was said about federation that I changed my plan, and thought the result as it came from my lips was somewhat confused. However, other people have spoken nicely of it, so perhaps it was not as bad as I thought.

It was a pleasure to see you, but the difficulty about such meetings is that there is not adequate time for a conversation with you.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mrs. Crichton:

Warmest thanks for your kind letter. I feel that this was really your meeting and that I ought to congratulate you on its success. We had a remarkable group of people and I feel that they left with a deep concern on their minds about cooperation of this country in some kind of an international organization.

As soon as we have all the funds in hand and all the bills I shall send a financial statement to you and Miss Howard.

I was delighted to have the Rhodes Scholarships so well represented. I am asking my secretary to send you a check for $5.00 for your expenses down from New York. Dear Besse:

Many thanks for your letter and the remittance of $85.50. I am sorry to say that there is no chance of any profit on the meeting. Our total receipts were $364.50 and our expenses for lunches, invitations, and miscellaneous items amount to $375.00 plus whatever travel expense we have to pay for speakers. There will be a small deficit, which I shall charge to the Institute. When the bills are all in and settled I shall send you and Mrs. Crichton a financial statement so that you will know just exactly how much was received and how it was spent.

It was a great satisfaction to have so fine an attendance and I was particularly proud of the quality of the Pennsylvania delegation.

My dear Mr. Aydelotte:

I hope Miss Eicheleorn expressed our appreciation of his meeting on Saturday to you this morning. Comment generally is most favorable.
I am still a little overwhelmed. Having helped with a number of conferences in the past, I realize in this world of meetings how difficult it is to get a group such as that together. The most encouraging part of it was that people wanted to come and they are still talking about it.

There is growing interest in post-war problems. I believe the association has its biggest opportunity - now - to help mobilize this interest and direct it towards his idea of world government as the speakers did last Saturday. So many people stop with the idea of reform, social and economic and all too many limit this to their own back yards.

This morning I was concerned when Miss Eichelson told me that you might run behind with your expenses. I have four dollars and fifty cents more since then - this will be all - making a total of $274.50. I hope to take this to my bankers tomorrow evening. I will ask him to mail you a check at once. I hope you will let us know how you come out.

Comments about your luncheon arrangements have been particularly favorable. The food was good and the atmosphere restful without the bustle that so often goes with a conference.

Thank you again so much, for your cooperation and courtesy.

My dear Mr. Sweetser:

This is a big "thank you" for the meeting on Saturday. The program was so fine - every body has been most enthusiastic in this world of meetings. People are interested. I came home feeling that the biggest opportunity for his association is - now! The problem - to mobilize this interest and direct it to his idea of world government as was done on Saturday. That was a picked group more or less - his general run of folks stop with his idea of reform after his war, social, economic etc. I feel sure that those who attended felt a certain "lift"

at the sessions and I believe they will take the message back to their own groups.

This morning I talked to Miss Echeles reporting my funds on hand of two hundred and sixty-nine dollars. Since then I have four dollars and fifty cents more. This will be all. I was a little concerned because she seemed uneasy about the expenses outstanding. I hope the proceeds will make up the expense for programs, travelling expenses, etc. Would you please let us know how you come out.

Thank you again for your cooperation in planning and participation in the conference.

Dear Arthur:

Our receipts for the League of Nations conference
are as follows:

New Jersey	$269.00
Pennsylvania	85.50
My office at the Insti- tute	10.00
	$364.50

Our expenses, excluding any payment for travel expense of speakers, amount to about $375.00. If you think Eagleton and Gerig should have $5.00 apiece for traveling expense I should be glad to send them checks for that amount and charge it to the Institute. Is there anyone else who should be similarly reimbursed? Should Carter Goodrich also have $5.00? If you will let me have your opinion on this question by return mail I will see that it is followed immediately.

Yours sincerely,

We have heard many fine things about it from various sources. We are sending you under separate cover a copy of the Daily Princetonian containing an editorial about it.

It looks as if we would run just a little short of making expenses. Dr. Aydelotte plans to send you a statement of receipts and expenses just as soon as we have all the figures in.

I enclose my personal check for $70.00, the amount of the cash which you handed to me on Saturday. When your treasurer sends us a check will you please ask him to make it payable to Dr. Aydelotte. We are keeping this little account entirely separate from our Institute funds.

My dear Dr. Aydelotte:

It is good to know that you are back in this country, so you are sure to be at our League Conference in Princeton, December 11th and 12th.

+70
Mr. Sweetser had told me earlier that you would send me a list of people in Princeton to whom you would like to have invitations sent. I was awaiting the list, but now today he suggests that instead I send you some of the invitations so that you may simply have them given to the people at the Institute and at Princeton whom you would like to have included. I am, therefore, sending you under separate cover by first class mail, forty of the invitations together with the corresponding number of the return card and the outline of the report.

I think perhaps it would be better for the people to whom you hand the invitations to send the reply card to me here. It would simplify matters for you and might be easier for the people at the Inn not to be getting reservations, etc. from two sources.

I hope Mr. Sweetser has told you that we are counting upon you to preside over the Sunday discussions. Also he has talked with Mr. Harold Butler and Mr. Butler has consented to speak at the dinner Saturday night. Mr. Sweetser, I am sure, will talk with you about these and other developments.

Acceptances are coming in well. We are all looking forward to the Conference and appreciate more than I can say your courtesy in making it possible for us to meet at Princeton.

Yours sincerely,

The members of the Economics Section of the League of Nations who have accepted for Saturday and to whom we are issuing complimentary tickets are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg
Mr. and Mrs. Loveday

There are just four others on this list who should be sent complimentary tickets if they make reservations, and they are as follows:

Mr. William Terry, New York City

There are a few people here who want to come to the conference but do not expect to have lunch at the Institute. We have been charging them $1.00 as a kind of registration fee. I suggest that you do the same with similar people who may apply to you. If you have already registered some of them for fifty cents I do not think you need to worry about that, but I would apply the $1.00 rate to future registrants. The problem will be most acute with those who apply at the last moment - Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

Dear Arthur:

Have you done anything about publicity for the conference on Saturday? I remember we mentioned the matter and I suggested that Brakeley's assistance should be asked. If you have already spoken to him I shall not do so; otherwise I will. While you are in New York I think it would be extremely useful if you could speak to some influential person connected with the Times, the Tribune, and Time.

I am not sure that we have not all of us been a little too quiet about the fact that the Economics Section of the League is working here at the Institute. It has occurred to me recently that one of the most graceful ways in which we could call attention to their presence would be to try to raise by subscription a fund to enable the Institute to build a building which could be occupied by the Economics group of the League for the duration of the war and which would revert to the Institute after the League no longer needed it. Such a building could probably be built for $50,000 and it would probably do more to call the attention of the ordinary person to the presence of the Economics Section than anything we could do. What do you think of the idea?

Dear Mrs. Crichton:

It seems to us here that on Saturday we ought to have stationed in our front hall a representative of the New Jersey Association and a representative of the Pennsylvania Association to make sure that each person who comes has a ticket and to sell him or her a ticket if needed. I think it inevitable that some people will show up who have not made reservations. Some will have made reservations but not paid, and we ought to have somebody from each association to take care of these matters. Since the meeting is a joint meeting of the two associations it is better that representatives of the two associations do it rather than any secretary at the Institute. Dear Besse:

I cannot welcome the Pennsylvania Branch and reply to my own speech, so I intend to call on you for a word or two. I am delighted that there is the prospect of as many as fifty people. I find there is great interest in the conference here in New Jersey, so I look forward to an extremely good meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Gentlemen:

Thank you for your courtesy in inviting me to attend the Joint All-Day Session of the two branches of the League of Nations Association, on November 29, 1941, at eleven on'clock in the morning.

I regret that I am unable to accept, because I am bound by a previous engagement.

Very truly yours,

James P. Hughes

Dear Besse:

In order to have a check on the people attending the conference I have gotten up a ticket in the form of a receipt, which should be mailed to each person making a reservation and which will serve as an admission ticket to the conference meetings and the luncheon. I am sending you tickets numbered from 1 to 100 and would appreciate it if you would send one to each person who makes a reservation, filling in the person's name and signing the card yourself. If at the same time you would keep a list of the reservations, indicating opposite each name the number of the ticket issued, it would be very helpful to us on the day of the conference if some of the people come without their tickets.

Yours sincerely,

FRANK AYDELOTTE

Dear Arthur:

When people accept your invitation for November 29th have Mrs. Crichton and Miss Howard any kind of ticket or receipt to give them which can be handed in for lunch? It seems to me that something of the kind will be necessary. Some people will undoubtedly come without having made a reservation in advance and arrangements should be made, I think, for them to pay their fee and obtain luncheon tickets at the reception office near the front door of the Institute. You may have some plan in mind for all all this; if not, perhaps we can arrange it when you come on Saturday.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Besse:

Have you any preliminary idea as to the number of people from Pennsylvania who will be attending our meeting on November 29th? It is, of course, too early to give a definite and final figure, but if you could let me know by Monday what the preliminary response has been that might give us some clue as to the size of the group we shall need to provide for.

Yours sincerely,

I hasten to call your attention to the fact, in case you have not noticed it, that the invitations to the therefore cannot be sent out under a single two-cent or three-in the flaps of the envelopes and send them unsealed at the

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

Just to remind you that on the twenty-ninth you are both welcoming the Pennsylvania Branch and accepting your own welcome as chairman!

We are delighted with the response and although we will keep your secretary accurately informed, and in ample time, of the correct number, I wouldn't be surprised if we had about fifty people.

Very cordially yours,

Besse D. Howard

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

Friday is an impossible day for me, but most days would be difficult and I am only too pleased to accept the findings of the Committee and will do what I can here to promote attendance among our members. The tentative agenda is fine and I feel certain that we can rally a little group of Pennsylvanians. Won't you let me have the definite date and program at your earliest convenience.

Today through the courtesy of Swarthmore College I received "An Adventure in Education" and believe me I shall read it with special interest. Many thanks.

Very cordially yours,

Order Souvenir

The purpose which the officers of the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Branches of the League of Nations Association had in mind in calling this meeting was two-fold: to hear something about the present activities of the League and to discuss its future. The two purposes are closely connected. In spite of the war the League of Nations is very much alive, a great many countries continue their payments toward its support, and its important technical activities are still being carried on effectively, even though the staffs have been reduced and even though the ~~staffed~~ seat of these activities has in some cases been moved from Geneva to this side of the Atlantic.

The vitality of the Secretariat and the technical organizations of the League is impressive. Whatever else the League may or may not have accomplished during the last twenty years, it has built up something new in the world: an effective international civil service. It was because of our feeling of the importance of keeping these groups of trained experts together and of preserving their traditions, that our three institutions in Princeton (Princeton University, the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and the Institute for Advanced Study) invited such technical groups as could do so to transfer from Geneva to this place for the duration of the war. McGill, as you know, has done the same thing for the International Labor Office, and the State Department has invited the Opium Section to carry on its work in Washington. The preservation of these groups with their records and traditions will, we believe, add greatly to the usefulness of whatever type of international organization the world may adopt once the war is over.

Some kind of League of Nations is inevitable if our civilization is not to decay. Mass industry has unified the world and developed a thousand conflicting inter-connections in one way or another which will immediately be reopened once peace returns. The task of the politicians is not to create an international community but rather to reorganize the international community which already exists and to foster, protect, and facilitate its operation in the improvement of the material and cultural life of modern society.

The decision as to what form this new association of nations will take is the most important problem which now faces mankind. The name by which it will be called is not important, but I suppose most of us here today would believe that the organization itself should be stronger than the League and should involve a larger sacrifice of national sovereignty on the part of its members. Only by this means is there any promise of bringing order out of the present state of international anarchy or curbing gangsterism or providing justice for nations large and small, to give some kind of dignity and security to the political and cultural activities of the different states. If we can do this, peace will follow and will be secure.

It is probably too much to expect that we shall be able to form a perfect international government at the end of the war; it is probably wiser to look forward to a period of experiment, growth, and development. It is an encouraging sign of the times that a great deal of thinking is being done in this and other countries as to the character which a new international organization should assume. Some of the results of that thinking you will hear in the discussions this afternoon. There is only one condition which I should consider absolutely indispensable for the success of this new international organization, and that is the participation of the United States. It seems quite clear that the new organization must depend greatly upon the support of the English-speaking nations and upon their sea power for its strength - at least in the early years. Unless the United States and the British Empire combine in its support I see no prospect for its success. I would not have our two countries, however, form an alliance for the domination of the world, nor do I think they will do so. Our hope should be that they will cooperate in lending their power to the support of a new international order.

How strong the isolationist sentiment is in this country nobody knows, nor does anyone know how rapidly it is evaporating in the heat of the tremendous events through which we are living. The vote on the repeal of the Neutrality Law is sometimes quoted as an index of the strength of isolationist sentiment, and if that be true then the task of the whole League of Nations Association in meeting that sentiment is a formidable one. Fortunately, in our efforts we have three great allies in the governments of the Axis powers. This vote was almost two to one (20 to 10 in Pennsylvania and 9 to 5 in New Jersey) against repeal in our states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. That does not present a picture of public opinion of either state which I can recognize.

These are some of the great questions which we are met to discuss today. I bid you a most hearty welcome and hope that the discussion will be continued in the local meetings of these and other branches of the League of Nations associations.

The purpose which the officers of the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Branches of the League of Nations Association had in mind in calling this meeting was two-fold: to hear something about the present activities of the League and to discuss its future. My dear Miss Lansdale:

Dr. Aydelotte has asked me to send you the enclosed invitation to the conference on Saturday and to say that we would be very happy to have you attend the conference. We are expecting a very large crowd and the luncheon facilities are so heavily taxed that we are asking Princeton people who attend to make other luncheon arrangements. The price of the tickets without the luncheon is $1.00.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Arthur:

I have your letter and also one from Miss Hickman. I think your program is admirable but I am afraid the date will be impossible for me. I have to go to California in October to speak at the inauguration of the new president of Pomona on October 18 and I doubt whether I could get back by the 25th. I ~~guess~~ hope we can have a word about this when you get back to Princeton. I am anxiously expecting a telephone call from you today. At the same time, I would like to discuss with you your very thoughtful letter about the income-tax problem.

Dear Frank:

I confess that I had to exercise great restraint yesterday to have my usual very warm feelings towards you when I thought that you were out all afternoon on the golf links with the Ozone Club and in the evening with, I hope, Prof. Einstein, while I that same afternoon was stretching my limited mental capacities to help shape a program for a Joint Meeting at the Institute of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Branches of the Association, and in the evening trying to defend a memorandum on Universal Organization at the Council on Foreign Relations!

However, I think that Miss Hickman and I made a fairly good start on the program, a copy of which I enclose for your very stern scrutiny and criticism. You are supposed to convert this into a really lively meeting....

There are also two special points for you:

First, could you do whatever is necessary vis-a-vis the Pennsylvania group?

Second, would it be possible to get the Secretary of the group to come to Princeton, say Tuesday or Wednesday of next week to meet with yourself, Miss Hickman, and myself?

I begin to feel rather uneasy signs coming over me that I may telephone you tomorrow afternoon to see if you might like to show me a 73 Sunday afternoon.

Cordially yours,

A.S.

September 18, 1941.

Dear Miss Hickman:

I enclose, as promised, the tentative program for the projected meeting at Princeton which we worked out yesterday. You will remember that you also promised to put it into good shape.

I am also sending a copy today to Dr. Aydelotte for his comments and criticisms, and suggesting that you and I meet with him and someone from the Pennsylvania Branch early next week.

I am sorry to say, however, that I do not have such good news about Mr. Carter Goodrich as a speaker on the I.L.O. He told me at dinner last night that the Governing Body would be meeting on precisely that day and that he, and, he feared, most other officials would be completely taken by it. We may have to go outside.

This also raises the question as to whether you might wish to postpone another couple of weeks until the I.L.O. Conference in New York had made its start and the Princeton football team was again away. I understand that you are checking with the Inn about this and also looking into the railroad connections, especially from Philadelphia.

Yours very truly,

Enclosure
