Professor Sjoquist of the University Art and Archaeology Dept. called to ask about the Herzfeld ms. He has had an enquiry from a Prof. Widengren at Uppsala, who is working in the same field as is covered by the H. ms., and is interested in knowing whether there would be any possibility of his doing a publication incorporating the H. material.

I told Prof. Sjoquist that there was no intention on the part of the Institute to publish the H. ms. Was not clear on the implications of the Widengren query, so said I would pass message along to you, and call ~~him back~~ Sjoquist back. S. is leaving for Europe at end of this week.

Monsieur le Directeur

Je viens de recevoir un tirage à part de l'article de Herbert H.Paper "Notice of a posthumous Manuscript of Ernst Herzfeld", paru dans le Journal of the American Oriental Society, vol.76, N°1, p.31-33. C'est sans doute à votre amabilité que je dois l'envoi de cet article et je vous en suis très obligé.

Je suis heureux aussi que cet article mette un point final aux problèmes qui se sont posés à propos du manuscrit en question, et que Mr.Paper ait rendu justice à l'attitude de notre Institut en constatant que, l'auteur une fois mort, ce manuscrit n'était pas publiable, sans l'assurance de « révisions » qu'on n'a pu trouver.

Tout en vous remerciant de l'obligeance et de la compréhension que vous nous avez montrées dans cette petite affaire, je vous prie de croire, Monsieur le Directeur, à l'assurance de mes sentiments bien dévoués.

Directeur.

Dear Mr. Miles:

Thank you for your letter of January 8th. I am enclosing a list of people, who have been suggested by our Librarian, who may be interested in the Herzfeld Volume; and I am also sending you a list of the longer term members of the Institute, some of whom you may wish to include in your mailing list.

I did not know from your letter whether you intended to send courtesy volumes, in your request for a list of names. But if you do plan to send out courtesy volumes, our suggestions would be to our Library and the Firestone Library of Princeton University, our present Director and the two former Directors of the Institute, Dr. Abraham Flexner, who knew Professor Herzfeld well, and Dr. Frank Aydelotte. Miss Goldman and Professor Lowe, as you know, were colleagues of Professor Herzfeld.

Please let me know if you need any further help.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Miss Russell,

I wonder if I might have a list of the members of the Institute--at least of those in the Humanities, who might be interested in the Herzfeld Memorial Volume. I am getting out a circular in advance of publication, and I would like if possible to include on the mailing list the names of colleagues and of successors of Herzfeld's at the Institute.

Thank you for your letter of October 15th. I have checked with our Librarian and Dr. Oppenheimer. They both have received copies of the Herzfeld Memorial Volume, which in fact arrived last July. I have not been able to reach Dr. Aydelotte's secretary; but since we received ours in this office, it is safe to assume probably that those on your mailing list received their copies also.

Dear Miss Russell,

You may recall that early this year we had some correspondence on the question of complimentary copies of the Herzfeld Memorial Volume. In accordance with suggestions contained in your letter of January 10th I sent copies --or at least I directed the publisher to have copies sent--to your library, to the Director, and to the former Directors of the Institute. I wonder if you would mind inquiring whether any of these copies were received; I know you would have difficulty in determining whether Dr. Flexner and Dr. Aydelotte received their copies, but perhaps you could find out about those sent to the Director and the Library. I ask because I have received no acknowledgment from anyone connected with the Institute, and it occurs to me that the copies may have miscarried or may never have been sent.

Miss Katherine Russell,

The Institute for Advanced Study,
Princeton, N.J.

Dear Miss Russell,

Referring to our earlier correspondence, and particularly to my letter of June 27, 1950, to Dr. Oppenheimer, and your reply of July 10, 1950, you will recall that there was a question of an additional appropriation of $300.00 to bring the total contribution of the Institute to the Herzfeld Memorial Volume to $1800.00. At that time I expressed the hope that I would not have to ask for this extra sum which Dr. Oppenheimer kindly said he would try to find if needed. But as so often happens actual costs of production have far exceeded original estimates, and the publisher and printer (J.J. Augustin), in spite of taking all the income that may be anticipated from sales, is probably going to lose substantially on the undertaking. He is, however, willingly absorbing this loss because of his regard for Herzfeld, for whom his firm printed some of Herzfeld's works during the latter's lifetime. I might say that the fact that costs are exceeding the original estimates is entirely my own responsibility in that, under pressure that I should have resisted, I have permitted contributors to the volume to run over their quota of words and illustrative material. The result, of course, is a more valuable volume, but also a more expensive one.

In order that I may at least meet Augustin's original estimate of $1800.00 I must therefore ask if it is now possible for Dr. Oppenheimer to find the additional $300.00 referred to in your letter of July 10, 1951. If so, I shall needlessly to say be most grateful. And if the sum is available I would like to have it, as well as the balance of $200.00 from the original appropriation, now, as Augustin is preparing to go to press in January. The check, or checks, should be made out to George C. Miles, Editor.

Very sincerely yours,
George C. Miles

Dear Miss Russell,

Thank you very much for your kind notes of June 29th and July 10th. Will you kindly convey to Dr. Oppenheimer my thanks for his sympathetic reaction to my letter. It is now my hope that the additional $300 will not be needed, that is that the publisher will be able to realize that amount out of profits from sales. However, it is good to know that in the event of necessity I may have that sum to fall back on from the Institute. I assure you, and will you be good enough to pass this on to Dr. Oppenheimer, that I will make no further request for funds.

At present I have no need for any part of the $1500 promised by the Institute and I will communicate with you in due course when the sum, or part of it, is needed.

Very sincerely yours,

Dr. Oppenheimer telephoned me the other day, and I told him of your letter of June 27th. Dr. Oppenheimer hopes very much that you will be able to obtain the additional $300 from another source; but if you are unsuccessful, he is willing to try to increase the Institute's contribution to $1800. We would, however, like assurance that the original $1500, plus the $300, if needed, will be the maximum contribution expected from the Institute.

I am sorry that it was not possible for Dr. Oppenheimer personally to reply to your good letter. We will wait to hear from you before formal arrangements for payment of the fund are made.

Dear Dr. Oppenheimer,

I believe that Dr. Richard Ettinghausen wrote to you on January 30th of this year to the effect that he had asked me to take on the editorship of the proposed Herzfeld memorial volume. I believe he also informed you that tentative arrangements had been made for the publication of the volume by the Ascona firm in Switzerland. Since I assumed responsibility for the editorship I have been concerned over rumors to the effect that the Baron von der Heydt of Ascona, who had undertaken through the Ascona firm to advance half of the necessary funds, had been under some suspicion of having aided the Nazis in the last war. While the Department of Justice declares that it cannot inform me explicitly of its reasons for blocking the Baron's funds in this country, the final disposition of the case not having been determined, I have sufficient confirmation of the existence of these suspicions from another reliable source so that I have decided, and Dr. Ettinghausen concurs, that it would be improper to bring out the Herzfeld volume under this patronage.

While I do not wish to trouble you with these details, I feel it proper that you should be advised of this decision. I am now negotiating with another firm, that of J.J. Augustin & Co., who have submitted a tentative estimate of $1800.00 for the production of the volume. With the $1500.00 which you have undertaken to furnish toward the project I may hope to be able to finance the deficit by an arrangement with Augustin providing for his receipt of entire profits from sales, if any. If, however, you were able to guarantee the $300.00 in case Augustin were unsuccessful in covering his costs and profit, it would obviously be a great help and assurance to me. Would you be good enough to let me know whether there is any possibility of this.

Very sincerely yours,

George C. Miles

Dear Dr. Miles:

Thank you very much for your letter of September 12th. I have delayed answering it in order that I may consult others here who knew Herzfeld.

It seems to me that Morey's introduction will be just right, and that no statement specifically on behalf of the Institute should appear as introductory editorial material. We would like to have on the title page a statement to the effect that "The publication of this volume has been supported by the Institute for Advanced Study in memory of Dr. Herzfeld, one of its first and most distinguished members."

With every good wish,

Robert Oppenheimer

Dear Robert;

In view of the "Appreciation" by Mowery
I don't think anything more by way of introduction is needed for the Herzfeld volume.
Perhaps if one wished to indicate a more personal connection, it would be possible to say something like this "The publication of this volume in memory of Dr. Herzfeld one of its early permanent members has been supported by the Institute for Advanced Study".

I am waiting to see the full coloring in glory,
but will be back at Princeton before long.

Cordially, Betty Goldman.

September 14, 1951

Dear Hetty:

You will see that Miles raises several questions in his letter. The one on which I most need your counsel is whether an introductory statement on behalf of the Institute could reasonably be prepared, and would indeed be appropriate. Left to my own devices, I would answer Miles' letter suggesting a note that "the publication of this volume has been supported by the Institute for Advanced Study", probably on the title page. But I defer to you.

With every good wish, and looking forward to seeing you here before long,

Dr. Robert Oppenheimer,

Dear Dr. Oppenheimer,

The editorial work on the memorial volume for Ernst Herzfeld has now reached the point where I am thinking about such matters as the format of the title-page, introductory material, acknowledgements, etc., and I should like to raise the question of the appropriate manner and phrasing of a statement regarding the financial support lent by the Institute to the enterprise. Production costs are, as might be expected, running far beyond the subsidy, but this was anticipated and is being taken care of by J.J. Augustin Inc.'s acting not only as printer but as publisher, and it is his hope to recover excess production costs by sales as he has facilities for wide distribution and advertisement in scholarly circles abroad as well as in this country. However, the volume could not have been undertaken without your subsidy and backing, and due and prominent acknowledgement of this fact should appear in the book.

An appropriate statement to the effect that the volume is being published with the assistance, support, subsidy, or the like, of the Institute could appear either in an introductory editorial note, or more briefly on the copyright page. Would you be good enough to let me know which you prefer and any phrasing which you might care to suggest as appropriate. It occurs to me as I write this that you might care to write a brief introductory note yourself on behalf of the Institute, and needless to say I would be delighted to have such a note with which to introduce the volume. The preliminary material will be followed by an "Appreciation" by Professor Morey, after which the articles by approximately thirty contributors will follow in alphabetical order.

With kind regards, I am

Dear Professor Oppenheimer:

You may recall that I wrote you a short while ago about the possibility of bringing out a volume in memory of the late Professor Herzfeld. I took the liberty of asking whether the Institute for Advanced Study would be interested in sponsoring it and whether it would be in a position to help out financially.

Following your suggestion, I wrote to a prospective publisher, in Switzerland, to find out what the cost would be and how large a contribution he would expect in case the volume would be brought out by his firm. I have just received the enclosed letter from them and I shall be very much interested to get your reaction.

May I add that we would need a small additional sum (probably not more than $200) for secretarial assistance in preparing the manuscript.

I am always very reluctant to write to you since I know how busy you are. Once the project is under way, however, every effort will be made not to trouble you any further.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Ettinghausen

Dear Dr. Ettinghausen:

At this moment I received a reply from the Ascona office. As expected, Ascona finds it extremely difficult to make calculations without knowing anything about number of pages and plates. However, the office assumes that you may count on 300 pages and a moderate number of plates, and for such a publication Ascona would expect a contribution of $1,200. to $1,500.00. The office also asks to take into consideration that good binding as well as the lowest sales price are very much to be desired.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,

Alfred Salmony

Dear Professor Oppenheimer:

Many thanks for your letter of February 8
in which you tell me about your interest in the projected memorial volume in honor of Professor Herzfeld.

I shall make further inquiry to find out to what extent the publisher would need financial support.

Again, with many thanks for your interest,
I am

Dear Professor Oppenheimer:

I have just received your letter of March 21 in which you tell me that the Institute can make available up to $1,500 in support of the proposed memorial volume in honor of the late Professor Herzfeld.

May I take this opportunity to thank you in behalf of all of the friends and admirers of Professor Herzfeld for this appreciation of his work. We hope to show our own admiration by the quality of our own contributions to the volume.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Ettinghausen

Dear Dr. Ettinghausen:

Thank you very much for writing to us so completely about the proposed memorial volume for Professor Herzfeld. I am answering to say that the Institute can make available up to $1,500 in support of this publication. We shall be glad to make remittances as they become necessary for the project. We do feel it necessary to limit our contribution to this amount; but hope that within this limit a really worthy memorial can be produced.

I should like to add a word of personal appreciation to you for your willingness to assume the responsibility that you have.

With every good wish,

Robert Oppenheimer

Dear Dr. Oppenheimer:

I am very happy to know that the projected volume in memory of the late Professor Herzfeld is taking shape and am in thorough accord with your proposal to contribute $1,500.

You will be glad to know that the book on the Tarsus excavations is finally to appear on March 22nd, provided the Press has no further unexpected mishaps such as occurred last week in the breakdown of one of the presses.

Very cordially,

Hetty Goldman

Dear Dr. Ettinghausen:

Thank you for your good letter of January 30th. We would be very happy to see a memorial volume in honor of Professor Herzfeld; and are most grateful for the initiatives that have already been taken.

We would most certainly be interested in contributing to the support of this volume; but we are not in a good position to judge either the extent of the monies that would have to be made available, nor the possibility of meeting the expenses in part from other sources. Would it be possible for you to give us a rough notion of what may be involved so that we may see whether our means are adequate to our interests?

With every good wish,

Robert Oppenheimer

Dear Professor Oppenheimer:

You may recall that Miss Goldman and I tried to arrange a memorial meeting at the Institute for its late member Professor Ernst Herzfeld. We wanted to have a number of outstanding speakers from the various fields in which Professor Herzfeld was interested, but we were never able to get a date that would suit them all. We therefore had to give up this project.

It has been repeatedly suggested that we bring out, instead, a volume in which his friends and colleagues can publish articles in his memory. One of his former collaborators, Dr. George C. Miles, would be willing to act as editor of such a volume, and I have also found out that the publishing house of Artibus Asiae of Ascona, Switzerland, would be willing publish the volume, if some additional funds could be granted. Since you were good enough to tell Miss Goldman that certain funds would be available for the memorial meeting, I wonder whether these funds, and perhaps some additional funds, could now be reserved for the purpose of bringing out the memorial volume. I am enclosing an English translation of a German letter which shows the willingness of Artibus Asiae to publish the volume.

May I add that some of the funds will have to be spent for secretarial work for the editor, who otherwise could not handle this task in addition to his work at the American Numismatic Society.

I hope you will find it possible to help us in this project, which would certainly show the great respect and admiration in which one of the former members of the Institute was held by scholars throughout the world.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Ettinghausen

Dear Robert:

I believe this is a good and appropriate thing for us to do. A memorial volume for Herzfeld, however, would have to be a good 'piece of book-making' with a fair number of plates and this would be costly, even in Switzerland.

might I suggest that we ask Ettinghausen to have Miles prepare a rough estimate of the size of the book, its overall cost and to find out also what proportion of the Cost would have to be born

by the Institute.

Sincerely

H.A.T.

Dear Professor Salmony:

In answer to your kind letter I should like to ask you to inform Dr. Ettinghausen that we are very interested in the project of the Herzfeld memorial volume. We agree in principal to bring it out through our publishing firm and to have it manufactured in our printing plant.

Past experience has shown that publications of this type are not possible without an additional grant to the publisher. We, therefore, hope that the editor will make every effort to receive such a subvention while we shall try to bring out a well printed work, the sale of which we shall try to push so that we can manage with the least possible help.

Very sincerely,

Verlag Artibus Asiae
