MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

made at Princeton, New Jersey, this 12th day of November, 1945, among:

HETTY GOLDMAN, hereinafter called "the Author," said Hetty Goldman acting on behalf of and with the specific authorization of all contributors to the volume,

INSTITUTE FOR ADVANCED STUDY, hereinafter called "the Underwriter,"

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS, hereinafter called "the Publisher,"

all of Princeton, New Jersey, said Hetty Goldman being the proprietor of a work entitled

1. Said Author, in consideration of the covenants and stipulations hereinafter contained, and agreed to be performed by the Publisher, grants and guarantees to said Publisher and its successors the exclusive right to publish the said work in all forms during the terms of copyright and renewals thereof, hereby covenanting with said Publisher that she is the proprietor of said work.

2. Said Author hereby authorizes said Publisher to take out the copyright on said work, and further guarantees to said Publisher that the said work is in no way whatever a violation of any copyright belonging to any other party, and that it contains nothing of a scandalous or libelous character; and that she and her legal representatives shall and will hold harmless the said Publisher from all suits and all manner of claims and proceedings which may be taken on the ground that said work is such violation or contains anything scandalous or libelous; and she further hereby authorizes said Publisher to defend at law any and all suits and proceedings which may be taken or had against it for infringement of any other copyright or for libel, scandal, or any other injurious or hurtful matter or thing contained in or alleged or claimed to be contained in or caused by said work, and pay to said Publisher such reasonable costs, disbursements, expenses, and counsel fees as it may incur in such defense.

3. The Author agrees to deliver to the Publisher on or before the first day of July, 1946, a copy of the manuscript and copy for the illustrations, complete and ready for press. If delivered in such condition that editing is required, such editing is to be done at the expense of the author. If the Author fails to deliver the manuscript within the specified time, unless extended by the Publisher, it may decline to publish the work, but the Author shall not be free to cause its publication elsewhere until she shall have re-offered it to the Publisher on the terms of this Agreement.

4. The Publisher shall exercise the same care of any manuscript, illustrations, or other similar property belonging to the Author in its hands under this Agreement as it takes of its own. The Publisher shall be responsible for its safety from fire or water, or loss, only to such amount (if any) as the Author shall request it in writing to keep it insured for at her expense.

5. At the time of the signing of this Agreement, the financial terms and conditions are agreed to be as shown below under Plan I. However, it is agreed that the Underwriter shall have the right, at its absolute option, and at any time before publication, to notify the Publisher in writing that it elects to follow the alternate plan designated below as Plan II. If this option should be exercised, then this agreement will be automatically modified accordingly, and the provisions of Plan II will be substituted for those of Plan I.

Plan I.

The Underwriter shall pay a total subsidy of $4,500 upon publication of the work, or earlier if such earlier payment should be an accounting convenience for the Underwriter. The Underwriter renounces any share in income, expressly agreeing that all such income of any description shall be permanently retained by the Publisher. In the event of loss or destruction of any copies of the book, the Underwriter shall be entitled to no indemnification whatsoever.

Plan II.

The Underwriter shall pay a subsidy of $6,000 (i.e. $1,500 in addition to the $4,500 referred to in Plan I, in the event that the said $4,500 has already been paid to the Publisher). The Publisher shall retain all income until 150 copies have been sold. Thereafter, all income of every description shall be divided 60 per cent to the Underwriter, 40 per cent to the Publisher, payment being made to the Underwriter on each anniversary of this Agreement covering the preceding twelve months. In the event of loss or destruction of books from any cause following the sale of 150 copies, the indemnity from insurance carried by the Publisher shall be divided 60 per cent to the Underwriter, 40 per cent to the Publisher; in the event of such loss before 150 copies have been sold, the Publisher shall first receive sufficient indemnity to make up the approximate sales income for the number of books under 150 not yet sold, and the balance of the indemnity shall be divided 60 per cent to the Underwriter, 40 per cent to the Publisher.

6. Expenses incurred for alterations in type and/or plates, exceeding ten per cent of the cost of original composition of said work, are to be paid for by the Author.

7. The Author shall receive six free copies of the work. For further copies said Author shall pay said Publisher the list price less the trade discount.

In consideration of the mutuality of this contract, the aforesaid parties agree to all its provisions, and in testimony thereof affix their signatures and seals.

1. This agreement completely replaces the agreement of November 12, 1945, signed by the same parties.
2. Said author, in consideration of the covenants and stipulations hereinafter contained, and agreed to be performed by the Publisher, grants and guarantees to said Publisher and its successors the exclusive right to publish the said work in all forms during the terms of copyright and renewals thereof, hereby covenanting with said Publisher that she is the proprietor of said work.
3. Said Author hereby authorizes said Publisher to take out the copyright on said work, and further guarantees to said Publisher that the said work is in no way whatever a violation of any copyright belonging to any other party, and that it contains nothing of a scandalous or libelous character; and that she and her legal representatives shall and will hold harmless the said Publisher from all suits and all manner of claims and proceedings which may be taken on the ground that said work is such violation or contains anything scandalous or libelous; and she further hereby authorizes said Publisher to defend at law any and all suits and proceedings which may be taken or had against it for infringement of any other copyright or for libel, scandal, or any other injurious or hurtful matter or thing contained in or alleged or claimed to be contained in or caused by said work, and pay to said Publisher such reasonable costs, disbursements, expenses, and counsel fees as it may incur in such defense.
4. The Author agrees to deliver to the Publisher on or before the first day of June, 1948, a copy of the manuscript and copy for the illustrations, complete and ready for press. If delivered in such condition that editing is required, such editing is to be done at the expense of the Author. If the Author fails to deliver the manuscript within the specified time, unless extended by the Publisher, it may decline to publish the work, but the Author shall not be free to cause its publication elsewhere until she shall have re-offered it to the Publisher on the terms of this Agreement.
5. The Publisher shall exercise the same care of any manuscript, illustrations, or other property belonging to the Author in its hands under this Agreement as it takes of its own. The Publisher shall be responsible for its safety from fire or water, or loss, only to such amount (if any) as the Author shall request it in writing to keep it insured for at her expense.
6. The Underwriter agrees to give the Publisher a total subsidy of $14,000 in aid of publication. The Publisher hereby acknowledges receipt of an advance payment of $1,500 toward this total. The Underwriter agrees to pay the balance as follows: $5,500 when the Publisher notifies the Underwriter that composition has commenced; $7,000 upon publication of the work or shortly thereafter at the convenience of the Underwriter.
In recognition of this aid to publication, the Author renounces any income from the work, expressly agreeing that all such income shall be divided between the Underwriter and the Publisher as provided in this Agreement.

7. The Publisher agrees to manufacture and publish the work entirely at its own expense and to devote to these operations as vigorous effort as if it had an undivided interest in the work.
8. With the exception of income from insurance in connection with loss or destruction of stock, the net cash receipts resulting from the sale of bound books or sheet stock, or from the sale or lease of any subsidiary rights, shall be divided 60 per cent to the Underwriter, 40 per cent to the Publisher. A statement shall be made by the Publisher as of February 1 and August 1 of each year, and payment shall be made in March and September, respectively.
9. In the event of indemnification for loss or destruction of stock, the Publisher shall receive what the parties agree at the time is fair compensation for its storage cost to that time, but the entire balance of the indemnification shall go to the Underwriter.
10. The Author shall receive six (6) free copies of the work, and may purchase additional copies if desired at 40 per cent discount from the list price. The Underwriter shall receive whatever number of copies for free distribution (but not for resale) it desires; if these copies are taken from the Publisher in bulk there will be no charge, but if individually shipped they will be charged against the Underwriter's account at 40 per cent discount from the list price. (Such charges against the Underwriter's account shall be treated as regular sales income in calculating the "60 per cent of net cash receipts" owed to the Underwriter as provided in Paragraph 8.)
11. Expenses incurred for alterations in type and/or plates, exceeding 10 per cent of the cost of original composition of said work, are to be paid for by the Author.
12. Except by the agreement of the Underwriter and the Publisher, this contract will not terminate for any reason within five years. Thereafter it may be terminated upon one year's advance notice in writing by either the Underwriter or the Publisher. Upon such termination the remaining stock of the work shall be taken over by the Underwriter, or, if the Underwriter chooses not to do this, then the Publisher shall be free to dispose of it in any way it sees fit and without accounting to the Underwriter for any income derived from it.

In consideration of the mutuality of this contract, the aforesaid parties agree to all its provisions, and in testimony thereof affix their signatures and seals.

Dear Sirs:

Miss Hetty Goldman is one of the leading archaeologists of the country. She has been a Professor at the Institute for Advanced Study since 1936 and is a person of the highest possible standing in this community. It is inconceivable to me that she should have in her possession a stolen camera. I am told by Miss Helen Hart, who is a member of the Computer Project of the Institute for Advanced Study, that she, Miss Hart, knows from personal knowledge that Miss Goldman has possessed the camera she now wishes to sell since about 1930.

Unfortunately Miss Goldman is now out of the country on her way to Turkey to conduct archaeological excavations at Tarsus so that she cannot now be consulted. Miss Hart's statement, however, can be relied upon implicitly and should be sufficient to dispose of any suspicion that Miss Goldman's camera is the one which was stolen.

Dear Mr. Fell:

According to our records Model 70 Camera Serial #52488 was originally sold on June 25, 1929 to the Abe Cohen Exchange of New York City. Ownership of the camera was not registered.

All Bell & Howell cameras are permanently identified by a serial number. The serial numbers are individually assigned and are engraved on the camera frame at the tripod socket.

Attached is an instruction manual covering the care and operation of all the various Model 70 cameras which have been manufactured.

If there is any further assistance we can give you please advise.

His address, according to attached letter from Fort Dix: 83 Carroll St., Trenton

According to later information rec'd from Frank's friends who talked with the man:

Mr. Peck did not say that he would come to see Frank the night of the day we learned of the situation; rather, wanted Frank to get in touch with him..

Tues., Feb. 25: Detectives of Trenton Police Dept. came to the Computer Building to ask Frank about the camera he had sold. They asked Frank if he would go with them to Photo-Art to see the camera - time to be arranged later. Frank learned from them that the case of the camera stolen from Fort Dix had been in the hands of the State Police earlier.

Wed., Feb. 26: Letter from Fort Dix (copy attached) reached Frank this afternoon.

Wed., Feb. 26: Telephone call to Bell & Howell, New York City, answered with information that early sales records are in Chicago Office. Telegram sent to Chicago requesting serial number (copy attached).

MEMO

To: Dr. Adelaide
From: Helen Hart
Date: Feb. 14, 1947
Subject: Camera sold by Mr. Frank Fell for Miss Hetty Goldman

In November or December 1946 Miss Goldman asked me to find out whether Mr. Fell would be willing to undertake the selling for her of a camera she no longer needed. He agreed to do so. Mr. Ware, who has considerable knowledge of photography and photographic equipment, cooperated with him. Photo-Art Co., 129 North Warren St., Trenton, N. J., made the most satisfactory offer for the camera. Mr. Fell sold the camera to Photo-Art in early January, 1947.

The camera

A Bell and Howell 16-mm moving-picture camera, with an extra lens which measurably increased its sales value at this time.

Date of the camera was not marked on it but it was assumed, by several people who saw it, to be a 1930 model.

Purchased by Miss Goldman, or by her father and given to her - she does not now know which, but does know that it was the best moving-picture camera on the market at the time it was purchased. Time of purchase: early 1930's surely. (My guess: the year when it was the "latest model," or very shortly thereafter).

Serial number on camera: none found, though looked for by Frank Fell and Willis Ware.

Lens numbers: found, but we do not have a record of them. /...cf. (The regular lens

((Questions: In case of necessity, would Bell and Howell, New York, or other New York store from whom Miss Goldman has obtained photographic equipment, be able to provide the identifying numbers from old sales records? Would pictures taken by Miss Goldman with this camera be a means of identifying the camera? Very satisfactory pictures were taken with it abroad, and shown to groups in this country (in connection with lecturing that Miss Goldman has done here?) Possibility: Serial number identification within useful range to meet the present situation in response to Frank's letter to Bell and Howell, Chicago, of which a copy is attached.))

Other identification: There were marks on Miss Goldman's camera by which Frank and Willis can identify it to their own satisfaction.

Location of camera covering several years' time

Unused and packed away for a long time preceding arrangement made with Frank. I believe it was stored in the attic of Miss Goldman's home. Emma would know definitely where it has been kept, and would probably know how long it has been there. At Miss Goldman's request, Emma got it out of storage after Frank had agreed to see what he could do about selling it. ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ While the camera was in Frank's possession all examinations of it, except those at Photo-Art, were made in his sight. Photo-Art's examinations of it were made in a back room. The correct camera was returned to him after their first examination of it. They examined it again when he called to make the final sale. A camera which seemed to be Miss Goldman's was brought back to the counter, and lens numbers from it were entered on the paper which Frank was asked to sign for Photo-Art's protection. If any lens or camera exchange was made, the time of this examination was the only time when such exchange could have been made.

Dear Mr. Aydelotte:

I have a note from Miss Goldman in Tarsus stating that she understood from her last conversation with you before leaving that things were squared away to provide the additional financial assistance required for her book, in view of the increased size of the illustration section.

I should be glad to learn at your convenience how this should be put upon a formal basis.

I think you have from my several previous letters on this subject all of the information you require, but if not please let me know.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

Before her departure for Tarsus, Miss Hetty Goldman revised her will. At that time she made some changes in the wording of the bequest to the Institute for Advanced Study.

I am herewith enclosing a copy of the pertinent paragraphs of the new will referring to the Fund for Anatolian Research. You will note that no basic changes were made in the objectives or administration of the Fund.

For that reason I assume no further action need be taken by the Trustees of the Institute. I should, however, appreciate an expression of your views on this subject.

Sincerely yours,

COPY OF SUBDIVISION (c) of ARTICLE TWENTY-FIRST
OF WILL OF HETTY GOLDMAN, DATED January 25, 1947

(c) It is my wish and I direct that the Institute for Advanced Study - Louis Bamberger and Mrs. Felix Fuld Foundation hereinbefore mentioned shall hold the property received by it under and pursuant to either Paragraph (a) or Paragraph (b) (1) of this Article TWENTY-FIRST of my Will, as the case may be, in a separate fund to be known as the "Fund for Anatolian Research" and shall ultimately use all of such property, both principal and income, for exploration and excavation in the field of classical and prehistoric archaeology in the region indicated by the title of the Fund, with due regard to the allocation of adequate sums for publication in connection with every enterprise undertaken.
I further direct that said Institute shall expend such Fund and the income therefrom in such amounts and at the times and for the specific purposes from time to time to be designated by a Committee of three persons to be appointed and maintained as hereinafter provided. It is my wish that said Institute retain the financial management of the Fund, but that the unhampered and unrestricted control and management of the archaeological undertakings be lodged with such Committee, subject only to the power of the Trustees of said Institute to withhold funds in any case where, after careful consideration, they deem a proposed expenditure not to be in accordance with the purposes for which this Fund is established. I hope that said Institute, through its School of Humanistic Studies, will give active support to the enterprises sponsored by such Committee, and that it will appoint members of said Institute recommended by the faculty of its School of Humanistic Studies to assist in the realization of the purposes of the Fund.

[If said Institute accepts the Fund upon the terms and conditions hereinbefore outlined, it is my wish that the three persons who shall constitute the Committee for the control and management of the archaeological undertakings be appointed as soon as practicable after my death by the Director of said Institute and Professor Benjamin D. Meritt of its School of Humanistic Studies. I hope that Professor Meritt will consent to become a member of the Committee first appointed and to serve until his retirement from the faculty of the School of Humanistic Studies of said Institute. If Professor Meritt predeceases me or shall for any reason be unable to assist in the selection and to serve on such Committee, I should like Professor Homer Armstrong Thompson of the Institute for Advanced Study, Professor Ephraim A. Speiser, now of the University of Pennsylvania, or Professor Albert Goetze, now of Yale University, in the order named, to act in the place and stead of Professor Meritt.] It is my wish and I direct that at all times at least one and preferably two members of the Committee be also a member or members of the faculty of the School of Humanistic Studies of said Institute, and that one member be someone not connected in any way with said Institute; that furthermore at all times one of the three members of the Committee shall be a scholar in the field of Near Eastern Studies. If after the organization of such Committee any member of such Committee dies before the Fund and the income therefrom shall be wholly expended, I hereby authorize the surviving members to appoint a successor to fill his place, subject to the conditions hereinbefore mentioned, it being my intention that such Committee shall be self-perpetuating until the Fund and the income therefrom shall have been entirely applied to the purposes for which it is being given. A member of such Committee shall not be disqualified from receiving compensation for special services rendered in connection with any enterprise such Committee controls, but the amount of his compensation shall be fixed by the concurring vote of the two other members with the approval of the Trustees of said Institute.

Dear Miss Straus:

I wish to thank you for your letter of March 24th giving me the text of certain changes in the wording of Miss Goldman's bequest to the Institute for Advanced Study. I am reporting the principal details of these changes to the Trustees at their next meeting and I am, of course, preserving the paragraphs intact in the Institute files. It is a great satisfaction to me that no basic changes are made in the objectives or administration of the fund and on this account I see no reason for further action by the Trustees of the Institute. Although as I say I am reporting the substance of your letter to them, the formal action of the Trustees in accepting this bequest in December 1944 will, I am sure, apply.

Yours sincerely,

Frank Aydelotte

Dear Hetty:

I am delighted to have your letter of March 22nd and to know that you arrived safely. I felt very strongly that we ought to take care of your assistant and I am glad that the Trustees accepted my recommendation. I hope everything goes well with your excavations. I have not yet got around to the task of thrashing out with the Princeton University Press the question of subsidies for your book, but I shall do it the first free moment I have. We are all of us very much puzzled here about Mr. Truman's policy toward Greece and Turkey, and I am afraid that we are not too confident in the ability of our diplomatic representatives to back the right horse in either state.

The thing that has kept me occupied to the exclusion of everything else during the last two months has been the question of the choice of my successor. I am happy to say that the Trustees have now accepted the recommendation of the faculty, have appointed Oppenheimer, have received his acceptance, and have authorized me to announce the appointment to the faculty at luncheon on April 14th. It will be given to the press on Tuesday, April 15th. This letter will reach you, I hope, not so long after.

I think it is a good decision, and I expect fine things from the Institute under Oppenheimer's regime. I myself am moving in with Lowe, who has been hospitable enough to give me quarters in his department. He sailed for Europe Wednesday on the Queen Elizabeth and will be gone about six months. By the time he returns he will find his office busier than it has ever been since Fuld Hall was built.

With kindest regards, I am

Yours sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR MINUTES OF ANNUAL MEETING, APRIL 18, 1947

I informed the Trustees at their meeting on December 5, 1944 of Miss Goldman's will leaving a substantial bequest to the Institute for Anatolian research, including exploration, excavation and publication. I have to report now that Miss Goldman has informed me that she has made certain changes in the will. The Institute is no longer designated as residuary legatee but is to receive a definite sum which, however, is not specified. Furthermore, the Committee which Miss Goldman designates to direct the researches has been changed and is to be appointed by the Director of the Institute, with Professor Meritt as Chairman. In the case of Professor Meritt's death, Miss Goldman mentions certain other individuals whom she would like to serve in his place in the order named: Professor Homer Armstrong Thompson of the Institute for Advanced Study, Professor Ephraim A. Speiser of the University of Pennsylvania, Professor Albert Goetze of Yale University. She wishes at all times one at least and preferably two members of the Committee should be a member of the Institute Faculty of the School of Humanistic Studies and that one member should be an individual not connected with the Institute. She wishes, furthermore, that at all times one of the members of the Committee should be a scholar in the field of Near Eastern studies. The full text of Miss Goldman's will as now executed is preserved in the files of the Institute.

Dear Hetty:

It gives me pleasure to inform you that the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees at their meeting on February 18, 1947 approved my recommendation authorizing a salary of $2,000 for an assistant for you in your work at Tarsus as from November 1, 1946 to October 31, 1947. Miss Miller stands ready to send checks for this salary to whomever you may designate at whatever address.

I hope you have escaped all the violence that is now taking place in the Near East and are peacefully at work on the excavations at Tarsus.

Dear Frank;-

I am most grateful to you for having taken on my assistant's salary. We have not been with all the supplies, and somewhat in the nature of a financial disaster, and I am glad to be relieved of the burden of her salary.

Everything is proceeding very well - just as it is at Ankara when my visit coincides with Truman's speech and the loan. I think we could have anything we asked for, except perhaps the bones of Attaturk!

I shall begin ex-cathedra, but April first our new assistant will be, in addition to Miss Groll, two Turks - one an experienced and very clever young man the other a young woman from Stambul whom the minister of antiquities has asked me to train in field work. As they are destined to do much of their work in the future I think it is important to help them to gain experience.

In Ankara I hear that Hayfield is expected some time this spring. Unfortunately I was unable to see been in Egypt.

I wonder how people at home feel about the policy towards Greece & Turkey. My own feeling is that it is just as well to come out into the open with our intentions. The Embassy has been sending us their daily radiogram service so we are not too much out of touch with the world.

Ever cordially,

Hetty Goldman.

P.S. I am sorry to send you letters in my own illegible pencil, but our type writer has disappeared and for the moment I cannot get it replaced.

I am delighted to receive this morning your letter of February 25th which apparently was only eight or nine days on the way. I am delighted that you have had such a fortunate experience in traveling and I must say I am a little relieved that you are safely out of Egypt. The troubles in Palestine seem to be getting steadily worse and there is always danger that they will spread to Egypt but I should not expect you to be disturbed in Turkey.

You will meanwhile have had my letter about the appropriation for your assistant and you will be glad to know that Mr. Hanfmann is coming to see me in April. I hope to be able to write you in a short time some news of the decision of the Trustees about my successor.

My luck has been just a little bit too good, for I found a Turkish boat leaving for Marsin (port within half an hour of Tarsus) less than 48 hours after my arrival at Alexandria. It will be wandering about Palestinian, Syrian, Cyprian ports for about a week before depositing me at Marsin, but it is a fine, clean little ship and I have captured a cabin for myself, so look forward with not too much impatience.

Of course there was no time for a visit to Cairo where I should have liked to have looked up Herzfeld, but I did see my old archaeological crony, Allen Wace and his wife. He was retired from his Oxford professorship and immediately received an appointment at Alexandria with excavation privileges. He is on the most romantic of quests--the tomb of Alexander the Great!

There was no occasion for sending out an SOS to Judge Henry for disturbances in Jerusalem are doubtless known in Egypt but were certainly never mentioned at the British Union Club where I dined twice. The trip on the Saturnia was very comfortable--indeed the whole journey had little post-war character so that those who admired me for my courage will have to cease doing so. I hear that direct service by plane, Ankara--New York, has been established by Pan-American Airways, so I shall probably fly in July or August. The book is rather on my mind. Dear Pat:

This is to introduce to you Miss Hetty Goldman, a member of the faculty of the Institute for Advanced Study and a great authority on archaeology of the Eastern Mediterranean. Miss Goldman supervised some excavations at Tarsus before the war and her book on them is about to be published by the Princeton University Press. She is now on her way to Tarsus to direct some further excavations. Travel conditions are so difficult that the only feasible way to go seems to be by ship to Alexandria and from there by another ship to Turkey.

Conditions in Palestine are so explosive at the present moment and these explosions have such a way of spreading, that I ventured to tell Miss Goldman that when her ship, the Saturnia, arrives in Alexandria about February 25th, she should apply to you in my name if she needs any help or advice. I should be most grateful to you for any assistance you can give her.

Miss Goldman proposes to travel via Egypt and I should be most grateful if you would grant her a Transit Visa. The work which she proposes to do is of great scholarly importance and the Institute for Advanced Study would appreciate anything that you can do to facilitate her travel.

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

December 20, 1946

My dear Miss Goldman:

I have just received a report from Mr. Hugo regarding the illustrations for your book, and am distressed to learn that the number of plates is running frighteningly in excess of the quantity planned for.

As you will recall, the original plan called for 134 pages. We have to date a total of 164 pages, not including the four plans which were estimated as the equivalent of 9 pages. And that does not allow for any illustrations for Chapter II (but perhaps you had not intended illustrations for that chapter anyway. In other words, even assuming that there are to be no illustrations for Chapter II, we nevertheless have 173 pages now, as opposed to 134 originally planned.

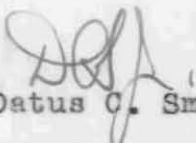

Also, the special photographic work which Meriden has done thus far (Chapters I, III, IV, VIII and IX) has cost $575.30, with Chapters V, VI, VII (and II?) yet to be done. Mr. Hugo tells me, however, that he believes extra photographic work on Chapters V, VI and VII will be quite light.

I am a little perplexed as to how we should proceed in view of the increased size of the illustration section. Anticipating a possible development of this sort, I had provided a leeway of $500 in the budget for illustrations, but the extra cost now is, of course, far exceeding that -- I would guess exceeding it by at least $1,000.

You and Dr. Aydelotte are aware, I believe, of the fact that although the Press knew that if necessary approximately $6,000 subsidy assistance could be secured, we deliberately cut the figure to $4,500. In view of that I am not as hesitant as I would be otherwise in asking whether you and Dr. Aydelotte would like to consider reopening the question of the amount of subsidy in order to make possible the additional illustration pages.

OF THE INSTITUTE FOR ADVANCED STUDY, DECEMBER 5, 1944

"Mr. Aydelotte reported that Miss Goldman proposed to leave the residue of her estate, after certain personal bequests, to the Institute for Advanced Study as a fund for Anatolian research, including exploration, excavation and publication. The archaeological work done under this fund is to be directed by a self-perpetuating committee, to consist in the first instance of Professor Benjamin D. Meritt, Professor William F. Albright and a third member to be selected by them. This committee is to have entire control over archaeological undertakings financed by the fund, subject only "to the power of the Trustees of the Institute for Advanced Study to withhold funds in any case where after careful consideration they deem a proposed expenditure not to be in accordance with the purposes for which this fund is established." Members of the committee are not disqualified from receiving compensation for services rendered in connection with this archaeological work but any such compensation "shall be subject to the approval of the trustees." Mr. Aydelotte moved that this gift be accepted and the motion, seconded by Mr. Maass, was carried."

Dear Mr. Aydelotte:

As you know informally, work on Miss Goldman's book, "The Excavations at Gözlu Kule: Tarsus" is going forward. The precise situation is that work on the illustrations is well advanced, and a large part of the photographing completed, and we are nearing completion of the tremendous job of copyreading the manuscript and preparing it for the printer, so that the text can go into composition shortly.

I understand that the payments from Bryn Mawr College and the Institute for Advanced Study are now in hand, and I write to say that it would be a convenience if the $1,000 payment from the Archaeological Institute of America could be paid at their early convenience.

As you recall, even at former prices the subsidy on this book represented only a portion of the cost. As a result of rising prices, the share to be borne by the Press has, of course, been greatly increased.

My dear Mr. Aydelotte:

Naturally we are all delighted with the news that Miss Goldman's book is in the press. The facts as stated in your letter of October 29th, which Mr. Dinsmoor has forwarded, agree exactly with our understanding as to the apportionment of the subsidy. The Archaeological Institute's share, voted some time ago is to be one thousand dollars ($1,000.), and Bryn Mawr's five hundred dollars ($500.). Bryn Mawr has already paid us, your Institute can make its payment whenever it seems convenient.

I see no objection to some payment being made to the press at this time. I am personally still so new to this business, however, that I hesitate to go ahead without some definite bill which will validate the transaction. In the case of the excellent Raubitschek volume, for instance, a payment of over two thousand dollars ($2,000.) has already been made, on the showing of a bill which explicitly covers the entire body of illustrations. In view of the long delays which have held up the manufacture of Miss Goldman's book, might it not be well to (1) make doubly certain that it will not be in the press for many years, and (2) to secure some bill for tangible work actually done? I imagine both of these could be easily settled if your secretary were to make a couple of telephone calls, and we should then have our feet on firm ground.

The cash is waiting at this end, and it is very agreeable news indeed that this great product of scholarship is in the works.

With reference to our correspondence of October, 1945 concerning Miss Goldman's book, you will be glad to know that the Princeton University Press now has it actively in hand and expects to bring it out some time next year.

They meanwhile have gone to a certain amount of expense and have asked me whether the various agencies which are subsidizing the book could make a payment of at least half the promised subsidy at this time.

You will remember that the total subsidy was $4500.00 of which the Institute for Advanced Study is to pay $3000.00, The Archaeological Institute of America $1000.00 and Bryn Mawr College $500.00.

I should very much appreciate it if Bryn Mawr College could find it convenient to pay at least half of its subsidy at this time.

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

As Miss Goldman will explain to you, the enclosed letter is sent to you at her request, I believe with the idea that it might help assure the subsidy assistance to be provided by the Archaeological Institute. I am sure I do not have to explain to you or Miss Goldman that this request would not be made under other circumstances.

Work on the illustrations for the book has been proceeding steadily, and the tremendous job of preparing the manuscript for the printer is likewise going forward. I expect that the letterpress section of the book will go into composition during December or January, and we are looking toward publication next fall.

I am sending copies of both of these letters to Miss Goldman.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Dr. Sydelste; -

I was glad to get your letter explaining the building program of the Institute. As a matter of fact I had had a somewhat hysterical letter from Mrs. Brochner asking my signature to a petition. Apparently the original plan was to submit the petition and then to get in contact with the Institute. I suggested that they reverse the procedure both as a matter of courtesy in dealing with the Institute and in their own interest.

I further told them that I felt we were sublet to ask that we however be put up directly behind our own (your letter reassured me on that point), but that further than that I was not willing to go in view of the housing crisis. As I was very explicit I do not think they will appeal to me again, though I have say they will go ahead with the petition. If Cook road is tree-lined as Merkin is, these houses ought not to be visible from our houses.

I judge from various bits of information contained in letters from the Institute, and the copy sent me from your office, of a letter addressed to Mrs. Liebman, that she has been making trouble. I would like you to know that I spoke to Mrs. L. before I left Princeton and told her that her work for the summer, as neither Dr. Paulsky nor myself had much to give her, would consist in trying for³ Pritchett our Weitzmann. She accepts this, and I must say, if I understand her attitude rightly, I see no justification for it. I fear I must admit that your judgment was better than mine!

Another matter. Late in September or early in October I am sending abroad Miss Theresa Goell (address 16 W. 74th St. New York City 23 N.Y.) to reestablish our work at Tarsus. Miss Goell has had some experience of the Near East, has a degree in architecture from Cambridge England, has studied archaeology at New York University and has worked on the conservation of antiquities in the Brooklyn Museum. During the war she worked at the Brooklyn Navy Yard on the repair of damaged ships.

Miss Brill is ideal for the type of work I want her to undertake and I want to make sure that her departure is not delayed.
Will you be kind enough to write Mrs.
Shipley asking for the prompt issue of a passport?

The news from Turkey is all very good.
Hugfield wrote me from Ankara when he saw the directors of antiquities; and the message is that they will welcome our return.
My missionary friends in Tarsus also say that American status is high in Turkish esteem at the moment.

I am enjoying my New Mexico holiday although I have not got away from the archaeologists by any means!

Very cordially,

Hetty Goldman.

Dear Dinsmoor:

This is just a line to say how deeply my wife and I regret that we have another engagement of long-standing which will make it impossible for us to hear you on Monday night. One of the members of our Faculty, Pauli, has just received a Nobel Prize. The official awards are made in Stockholm on Monday, December 10th and we are giving a dinner of scientists to Pauli at the Institute that evening to congratulate him.

If by any chance you stay overnight in Princeton it would be a great pleasure to get a glimpse of you on Tuesday and I should like especially to know whether you have any news about the additional $500 we need for Miss Goldman's book.

Dear Dinsmoor:

I have had a talk with Miss Goldman and we agree that Chase is the best man for you to approach at Harvard on the question of a contribution to the publication of her book. Chase has retired but he is still active and his support of the proposal would carry great weight with the authorities at Harvard.

It might also be worthwhile to approach Rhys Carpenter at Bryn Mawr. I don't suppose Bryn Mawr has much money but after all it is only $500 that is needed.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Frank Aydelotte

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

I am replying to your letter, which reached me on October 25, with respect to your hope that an additional $500.00 might be added by the Institute to its original appropriation of $1,000.00. As I was immediately departing for the West Coast, I had to delay my reply to you until my return.

You will realize that the matter of allocating a subsidy to the Tarsus volume was somewhat complicated in view of the fact that no disposable funds had been budgeted by the Council for the current year, and that it was necessary to go first to the Publication Committee for their approval of a request to be submitted to the Executive Committee, and then to submit the matter to a vote of the Executive Committee. The votes having been favorable from both Committees, the $1,000.00 will be available at any appropriate moment, as I had written to Miss Goldman.

It would be rather awkward, however, to go through all these motions again, and I am wondering whether there could not be some other way of meeting $500.00 of additional expense? There are so many calls upon our very slender funds that I should hesitate to put a supplementary allocation before the two Committees.

Very sincerely yours,

William B. Dinsmoor

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

It will not make any great difference if the signing of the contract is delayed for a short period. I suppose you are wise in not wishing to commit yourself to money that is not yet in hand.

The two supporting institutions not yet heard from are Bryn Mawr and Harvard. Harvard was in on the Tarsus excavation for only a short time and, as the people interested are now retired, I am not too hopeful that they will do anything about it, and Bryn Mawr is perennially poor. However, I have written to both proposing that they contribute this sum and if you will perhaps do what you can at the meeting of the Philosophical Society, where many of the people will be present, I think there is a faint hope of getting our $500.

Dear Dr. Aydelotte;

I asked Miss Segall to come to see me today and we have gone into the matter of her plan of work. She showed herself very understanding of the situation created at the Institute by the presence of the League personnel who, like "The Man Who Came to Dinner" arrived but failed to depart.

She will work exclusively at Mc Cormick Hall until the first of the year, but then will have to have the room promised her last spring in order to unpack her files, set up her typewriter and write the book she has planned.

May I ask, as a reward of our combined forbearance, that this will be done when the time comes by those entrusted with such problems, without my having to intervene once more? Insisting upon rights, either my own or others, is not a congenial occupation, although, unfortunately often a necessary one, so I do hope to be spared.

Sincerely,

Hetty Goldman

16th October, 1945.

Dr. F. Aydelotte.

Dear Dr. Aydelotte:

I should like to apply for leave of absence during the academic year 1946-47 in order to return to Tarsus. You will remember that when I came to the Institute it was with the understanding that I should spend half my time at the Institute and half in the field, where I had begun the excavation of Tarsus previous to my appointment at the Institute, under the auspices of Bryn Mawr College, the Archaeological Institute of America and Harvard University.

When the war broke out in 1939, a large part of our program had been fulfilled but neither the excavation nor the study of material had been completed. I was able to bring home sufficiently full notes, architectural plans and photographs to write, in collaboration with others who had worked as my students and assistants at the dig, the first volume covering the later Greek and Roman periods. This volume, to which the Institute as you will remember has contributed $3,000 and to which the Archaeological Institute of America has promised to make a contribution, is now in the hands of the Princeton Press.

By the end of the year 1945-46 the second volume, covering the more ancient periods from about 3000 B.C. to 600 B.C. will be ready in preliminary form and it will then be necessary for me to return to Tarsus and complete the volume by making a more intensive study of the material left in storerooms at the site. There will also probably be a limited amount of supplementary excavation aimed at completing such data as study has shown to be inadequate. This will not be the fulfillment of the original program which envisaged excavation on a larger scale than has been possible of the earliest levels, but it will give us sufficient data to write an authoritative report on the early archaeological history of Tarsus and, in view of the many years lost through the war, that seems all that I can undertake.

The excavations at Tarsus represent a pioneer study of this region of Anatolia and I feel that it is my professional duty to complete it before I undertake any other work.

Yours sincerely,

Hetty Goldman

FROM: Miss Goldman

I have received your letter concerning application for leave of absence in 1946-1947. I would like to know on what date you are going to present this to the Trustees as it might be well to await the answer from the Princeton Press about the publication of Volume 1. They are holding a meeting, I believe on October 18th and I ought to know shortly after that time. If you would like the statement immediately I can prepare it for you.

Dear Miss Goldman:

I have received legal advice to the effect that it will be necessary for the Institute to obtain the approval of the National War Labor Board for increases of salary for members of our staff before these increases can be legally put into effect. I had assumed that this would not be the case since the regulations specifically exempt "organizations operated without profit and exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes." It appears, however, that the War Labor Board in making this exception in one paragraph has practically withdrawn it in the next and that specific permission will be necessary for any increase which we may desire to make.

I am taking urgent measures to get a ruling from the War Labor Board but if it proves impossible to get them to act before the middle of July, your check for that month will be kept at the old rate until such time as we receive permission to make the increase voted by the Board of Trustees. If and when permission is granted by the War Labor Board for this increase, I shall ask to be allowed to make it retroactive as from July 1, 1945.

Miss Miller will be glad to give you at any time such news as there is concerning the progress of our negotiations.

Dear Miss Goldman:

I make you my humblest apologies for allowing the Humanistic nominations to come up in the Faculty meeting after I had told you they would not. The change was due to a memorandum you signed along with other members of the Humanistic School and which gave me the impression that the Humanists felt that I was not treating them fairly. Certainly I meant to be fair and I decided immediately to authorize the presentation of the Humanistic candidates which was accordingly done. I tried to get hold of you to tell you of the change but you had already gone. We hope to have your comments at the Faculty meeting on Tuesday morning, May 22nd.
