Preferred Citation note

The suggested citation for the material is "[item], Director's Office: Faculty files: [series or subseries if present]: Box [box number], From the Shelby White and Leon Levy Archives Center of the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, NJ, USA."

Scope and Contents note

The Director's Office: Faculty files series contains files maintained by the Director's Office on past faculty members. Faculty files are transferred to the Archives when IAS professors resign their positions at the Institute, or upon their deaths; files for current professors and living emeriti are retained by the Director's office. Individuals who were offered, and declined, professorships at IAS are represented in this series. Also included is former IAS Director Harry Woolf.

Faculty files typically include administrative materials including documentation of professors' appointments. They may also include documentation predating or postdating an individual's professorship at IAS.

Arrangement note

---

Files are arranged in alphabetical order by name.

---

Administrative Information

---

Publication Information

Shelby White and Leon Levy Archives Center

Revision Description

November 28, 2018

Conditions Governing Access note

Administrative records of the Institute are closed for 30 years from the date of creation. In addition, letters of recommendation are closed until the death of both the author and the subject of the recommendation.

Immediate Source of Acquisition note

The bulk of the files were transferred to the Archives by the Director's office. Additional files were donated by other offices or individuals.

General note

In 1933, Flexner asked Woodward to put in writing his assessment of how the humanities could best be pursued at the Institute. Woodward's 16-page document in response to that request, and related correspondence, is included in this file. There is also an Oct. 20, 1950, letter from Earle to Oppenheimer referencing the 1933 memo.
